Summary

❖ Nowadays, consumers are needed to be treated like a King as they bring business to the seller. Previously, consumers needed to be cautious before buying any product, but these days sellers needed to be more cautious before selling any product as due to policies introduced, government laws, consumer protection, NGO and the increased competition in the market. Though the consumers are protected by policies and laws, lack of awareness prevails among the consumers; the need of the hours is consumers are empowered towards their rights and protection.
